Our Head Australian Trek Master is the highly experienced and respected Wayne Wetherall. Wayne has done countless treks across the Kokoda Track, often in the company of the Landowner Chiefs or Landowner Councillors and has a very close relationship with the villages and village people across the Track. Wayne is supported by the very best Australian and Local PNG Trek Masters that have a deep knowledge and understanding of the battles and battlefields along the Track.

Safety- We are focused on safety with our head guides trained in remote first aid and ever watchful to reduce any potential hazards along the way. We carry the latest in satellite phones and back to base radios which are regularly monitored to ensure your safety. We also carry a comprehensive first aid kit. As a specialist Australian trekking company Kokoda Spirit has an enviable reputation for its outstanding safety and successful completions of the track. We have a $10million Public Liability Insurance and a complete Risk Assessment, and Risk Management Policy.

Groups- Our group sizes are restricted to a maximum of 16 persons. This number allows you to have space on the track and plenty of space in our campsites and villages. Smaller groups are more intimate and personal and also allow you the opportunity to learn from your guides, about the history, the sites and the culture of the people, without competing with mass numbers of trekkers.

Preparation– Kokoda Spirit prides itself in ensuring our trekkers are properly prepared and briefed before and during their trek. You will receive a comprehensive information package that includes training preparation, food and menus, what to expect before and after your trek, gear lists, information about the track and PNG, track conditions, medical requirements, travel insurance and a extensive question and answer section. We can be contacted 7 days a week to answer any of your questions or assist with your preparation.

TO WALK IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF HEROES, TO WALK IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF OUR BROTHERS is a heady experience; it is an experience a turning point that blows away our preconceived limitations of our physical, emotional and spiritual ability and endurance. It reminds us that the human spirit and our self imposed boundaries are only limited by our ability to dream and believe.

It is not how many years a man lives that matters, but what he does with those years, many or few that is granted to him. The men on the Kokoda Track have done much with theirs.

"To walk in the footsteps of the Kokoda heroes was a truly empowering, powerful and life changing experience... in the top 5 of my life... "The Trek Masters and Porters were fantastic guides, we were always confident of our safety and comfort, with every wish attended to. Kokoda Spirit has a great team including all the carriers, crew and hotel staff... Your logistics, organisation and management skills were first class and your local knowledge of the track and its history was paramount in the successful making of our documentary."

Walking the Kokoda Track was a fantastic experience, the trip of a lifetime. Kokoda was like nothing that I have ever experienced before. The climate, the jungle the scenery, the physical and mental challenge, the history. It is almost overwhelming, yet so empowering. I was particularly impressed with the management, logistics, safety and professional approach from Kokoda Spirit. The way they work with the locals and their concern for the PNG people is a credit to the organisation. I would highly recommend Kokoda Spirit to any organisation or individual that wants a trip of a lifetime.
